FUNERAL OF ELDER NYE.

Impressive Services in Ogden Tabernacle-Feeling Eulogies From Friends.

Large Majority Favor School District Consolidation-Memorial Services In Catholic Church.

The last sad rites over the mortal remains of Elder Ephraim H. Nye, president of the Southern States mission who died at Columbia, South Carolina, May 15, took place yesterday afternoon in this city. The love and esteem in which the deceased was held was evidenced by the immense concourse of sympathizing friends who thronged the Ogden tabernacle to pay a tribute of respect to his memory. The Sixtyseventh quorum of Seventy, of which deceased was one of the presidency, atdeceased was one of the presidency, attended the funeral in a body, and Foster's Military band headed the large funeral cortege. The floral tributes were numerous and beautiful, among the most elaborate were a large harp, from the California missionaries; a large anchor from the Southern States missionaries; a broken wheel from the Seventy's quorum; star and crescent from the nephews and neices, and many other designs from friends n Salt Lake.

Ogden and other parts of the state.
The funeral services were presided over by Bishop John Watson of the Fifth ward. They were commenced by the tabernacle choir singing, "Thou Dost not weep to weep alone;" Presi-dent C. F. Middleton offered the invocation. The choir sang, "God moves in a mysterious way." The first speaker was Elder Charles R. Savage of Salt Lake City, who said: "On this occasion I feel as though I would like to be silent for in the demise of Brother Nye I feel the loss has come home to me; we were such close friends. Only a few weeks ago I parted with him apparent ly well and today I am speaking at his funeral. To know him was to love, honor and respect him. He was my ideal of a missionary, being gifted of God with wisdom and great understanding. In life he was not a money-making man, but a devoted and faith-ful exponent of the cause of truth. He could always be depended upon, and he stands today among the faithful, having fought the good fight and a crown of glory is in store for htm."

Elder Foster Zundall of Willard

Elder Foster Zundall, of Willard, Boxelder county, who accompanied Elder Nye's body home, paid a feeling trib-ute to the work and worth of the dead Elder, and of the excellent work he had done in the Southern States mission, and of the broad foundation laid by him for the future work there. Sister Mary Farley sang, by request of the family, "Sometime We'll Under-

President Seymour B. Young of the First Council of Seventies, was the next speaker. The deceased was a dear friend to him, and he eulogized the noble work and character of Elder Nye, referring to his long and faithful missionary labors in England, California and in the Eastern and Southern States. In all these fields, the Elders, Saints and friends learned to love him.

A double male quartet sang "His Noble Work is Done." Elder John Henry Smith, of the quorum of Apostles, delivered a forcible dis-course on the work of the salvation of souls, and paid a glowing tribute to the great work done by Elder Nye in this direction during his life time, and which he would continue in the world

Bishop John Watson made a few closing remarks.
The choir sang, "Come, Dearest Lord," and benediction was pronounced by Elder L. F. Moench. The funeral cortege, nearly a half mile long, fol-lowed his remains to their last resting place in the Ogden city cemetery. grave was dedicated by Elder Thomas A. Shreeve. The pall bearers were, C. Dr. Brimhall expressed gratitude at feeling able to say a few words to the students. He told them that they were going out into the world, which would ask: "What can you do?" And they would find many things to do, many things they could do and many things they could not do. He advised them to find what they could do and do it well and then they would love what they did; and learn to love the noble and the true; forget the evil and hate it so that if they should learn that the evil one were dead and hades abolished, they would continue to do good for the love of it. He closed by reading a beautiful original poem, illustrative of

Prof. A. C. Lund sang "Calvary" in a very artistic and impressive manner. Patriarch John Smith endorsed the sentiments expressed by Dr. Brimhall, and exhorted the graduals to so live that their labors would be approved by their Heavenly Father; to improve upon what they have learned and prepare for future usefulness, whether those duties were on the farm, in the shop or in the ministry; to learn to listen to in the ministry; to learn to listen to the still small voice and be guided by

Jos. B. McCallister sang "Where the Education, said the sperker, was a desirable thing and one that all should desire and aim to obtain; but the basis of life was character-honor and truth should be made the basis of every act in life. The spirit of God and the testimony of the Gospel which is cultivated in these Church schools, were among the greatest blessings that could be secured, and would greatly assist the graduates in making their lives honorable and successful. The importance and nobility of motherhood was touched upon, and the necessity for a liberal education for the young women, in order that they might with honor and a true appreciation of its sanctity fill the office of motherhood. He closed by urging all to keep the testimony of the Gospel in their hearts and retain through all the changes of life a love for the school and for the Gospel, and he wished them all the success they desired.

Buckhor flata comprises about 12,060 acres of beautiful land lying directly under the south end of Cedar mountain, some 12 miles east of Castle Dale and 29 miles south of Mounds, on the Denvel & Rio Grande railroad, the nearest rail road point. To water it, a dam would have to be built at the base of Cedar mountain to catch the rainfall, and another to catch the flood waters of Huntington creek in the spring. To insure a still safer water supply it is proposed to establish a reservoir in the Wasatch mountains in the vicinity of Miller's flat, turning the water into Hunting-ton creek, thence into the Cleveland canal to the Buckborn flat. The cost of the reservoirs, canal work and fluming is variously estimated at from $30,000

It was discovered at the time the Denver & Rio Grande railway was under construction from Grand Junction to Ogden, when the line was surveyed via Buckhorn fiat that soll was fully 50 feet deep. The climate is much like that of Moab, and it is believed that the land would make an ideal fruit grewing district.

OPENING REMARKS.

President Smith made a brief intro ductory statement of the object of the convention, which had come together, he said, for the purpose of considering the Book of Mormon, and the people of whom it gave a history, and the lands to which it refers; not for the purpose of discussing the divine authenticity of the book, for that had been accepted when we accepted the divine accepted when we accepted the divine missionof the Prophet Joseph Smith, and the testimony of the witnesses to the book; that it had been brought forth by the power of God. President Smith introduced Dr. M. H. Hardy as the first

BOOK OF MORMON NAMES.

Dr. Hardy took up the pronunciation of proper names in the Book of Mor-mon. After a brief reference to the changes which were constantly being made in spelling and pronounciation, and warning the students against fads and warning the students against fada, —as common in pronounciation as in everything else—he stated that the Book of Mormon and the Bible were not strangers and that there was a great similarity in the proper names of the two books. He had prepared a list of Bible proper names and Book of Mormon proper names, which were alike, and after eliminating them he found comparatively few to consider.

GENERAL DISCUSSION. general discussion followed. which President B. Cluff, Jr., Prof. J. E. Hickman, Prof. J. H. Paul, Andrew Jenson, Gorge Reynolds and others took part. President B. Cluff, Jr., suggestthat it would be a serve recobnized rules of pronuncia tion to a point where they offend against euphony when applied to Book of Mormon names and in those exceptional cases adopt a more euphone-ous pronunciation. This brought out idea from Prof. Hickman that phony" is generally the pronuncation person is accustomed to regardless of whether it agrees with the rules of

The motion was unani-lously carried and the following comcommittee." mittee was appointed: George Rey-nolds, C. W. Penrose, J. E. Hickman, B. Cluff, Jr., and M. H. Hardy.

ELDER REYNOLDS SPEAKS. Elder George Reynolds, briefly addressed the meeting on the question of pronunciation, and was in favor of a uniform arbitrary rule as being preferable to the present diversity. E did not think the committee could com dete its work during this convention The speaker was sure that some of the pronunciations which had been given by Bro. Hickman and others were wrong and he supposed these brethren would be just as certain that they were that and he expressed a doubt about right, and he expressed a doubt about his ability to convert them or their ability to convert him in a day or two President Smith, by way of illustra-tion, showed the differences of pronounciation of even common words; related a number of amusing examples, and advised the committee not to be too technical, or too insistent, upon the adoption of favorite individual methods. "We thank Thee, O God, for a prophet." tc., was sung by the congregation, and benediction was offered by Elder James Sharp, after which the convention adjourned till 2 o'clock.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The afternoon session commenced by the congregation singing: "Come, let us anew," etc. Prayer was offered by Elder Charles W. Penrose. The meeting was devoted to a consid eration of the geography of the Book of Mormon—the location of the coun-tries and cities inhabited by the Nephites after they landed on this conti-

BOOK OF MORMON GEOGRAPHY. Prof. B. Clff, Jr., was the first speaker. He referred to the indefinite man-ner in which the Book of Mormon writers described the land of Zarahemla, and the consequent uncertainty in the minds of Book of Mormon students on the matter of its location. counted for the lack of definiteness by the Book of Mormon writers on this point, by calling attention to the fact that, unless a person is writing a geography, he is not, as a rule, exact in the geographical description of the place where he lives. This was so with the Book of Mormon writers; but they wrote of other countries and places location. wrote of other countries and places, lo cating them with reference to Zarahem la, Prof. Cluff read a great number of passages from the Book of Mormon, thus describing other cities and lands, which indicated that Zarahemla was located south of a narrow neck of land. that it was north of a plateau or high-er country than Zarahemla, and that it was on one of the banks of a river having a north and south direction This with other historical and descrip tive Book of Mormon data, to which reference was made by the speaker, caused him to believe that Zarahemla was situated on the Magdalena river— the river Sidon of the Book of Mormon—in the United States of Columbia and Venezuela. The speaker referred to the Venezuela. The speaker referred to the fact that some students could not reconcile the statements as to time consumed in traveling from one place to another with Zarahemia being at the point claimed by him. This the speaker did not think was incompatible with his claim, and in support of this cited the rapidity with which the Indians, now in that country, the descendants of the Nephites and Lamanites, travel. From this initial point Prof. Cluff located a large number of cities and countries mentioned in the Book of Mormon.

LOCATION OF ZARAHEMLA. Elder Robert Holmes, of Spanish Elder Robert Holmes, of Spanish Fork, had a different opinion as to the location of the land and city of Zara-hemla and believed it was situated at some point in Honduras, and gave his reasons from Book of Mormon writings. Elder Holmes was quite earnest in his opinion and had evidently studied the question very closely. question very closely.

PRESIDENT SMITH'S ADVICE. At the close of Elder Holmes' address, President Smith spoke briefly and expressed the idea that the question of the situation of the city was one of interest certainly, but if it was certainly, but if it could not be located the matter was not of vital importance and if there were differences of opinion in the question it would not affect the salvation of the people; and he advised against students considering it of such vital importance as the principals

LOCATION OF NEPHITE LANDS.

Elder B. H. Roberts expressed pleasure to be privileged to address the convention, and spoke of the apparent necessity for such a gathering. He desired to speak upon the question of locating the Nephite lands, and some-what upon the bringing forth of the Book of Mormon. Where the peoples of Nephi, Mulok and the Jaredites were was a matter of secondary considera-tion. The Book of Mormon was not a physical geography but a history of the hand dealings of God with this people on this continent, to be brought forth in this day for the purpose of bringing salvation to the descendants of Nephi and to testify of God to all the world. Elder Roberts took issue with some of the speakers, who thought that but slight physical changes had taken place on this continent at the time of the crucifixion of the Savior; he believed nat great In support of this theory he read from Jacob, the brother of Nephi, who speaks of his people being on an island. He and was; and he believed that the country had so changed that it would be difficult now to designate any place nentioned by Book of Mormon writers from the present topography of the country. He took issue with the statement that most of the Book of Mormon writers had written in the land of Zarahemla. This was only true of a few of them; and further, the Book of

Dr. Talmage related several instances showing that educators and scientists were interested in the book and becom-ing acquainted with it; and he believed he time would come when it would be ing on the history of this continent and President Smith endorsed the remarks of Dr. Talmage and Elder Roberts, and again cautioned the students against making the union question—the loca-tion of cities and lands—of equal importance with the doctrines contained BISHOP WHITNEY'S REMARKS. Bishop O. F. Whitney spoke of the great disturbance of nature at the time of the crucifixion as recorded in the Book of Mormon, for the puropse of showing that the contour of the cuntry had been greatly changed, reading from the Book of Mormon in proof of this theory. He had committed himself in verse and prose to that theory and did not like to see his idols shattered, and he believed that the tempest and destruction which preceded the first ap-pearance of the Savior on this continent were typical of the greater destruction
